R&D tax credit services

Need a ready source of cash that can be dropped to the bottom line or used to fund innovation? R&D tax credits can provide an immediate cash benefit by reducing, current and future years' federal and state tax liabilities, oftentimes even if your business has reported income tax losses.

As one of the largest and most respected research and development tax credit practices in the nation, Aprio has more experience than any firm in the U.S. with the payroll withholding aspect of R&D tax credits. Our R&D processes maximize benefits and provide documentation that can stand up to the toughest scrutiny of taxing authorities.

Outsourced cloud accounting services

Gain greater visibility into your business with timely accurate financials and the accounting advice you need to stay investor ready.

Partner with the recognized leader in cloud accounting, Aprio Cloud, to automate back office processes, get easy to read visual dashboards and the ability to generate meaningful financials for investors and stakeholders with little or no strain on your growing team.
