FLEXIBLE SCALABLE SOLUTIONS THAT EXPAND YOUR TEAM'S SECURITY OPERATIONS

All businesses are Technology-driven nowadays. With rapid enhancements and constant changes in technology, it is often assumed that IT will be able to adequately protect the organization regardless, but legacy security infrastructure is not designed to expand in scope across new and unfamiliar systems.

Data continues to grow as primary asset and organizations are moving to more cloud services with expanding integration and automation between development and production via DevOps. Security can no longer be isolated as a stand-alone discipline.

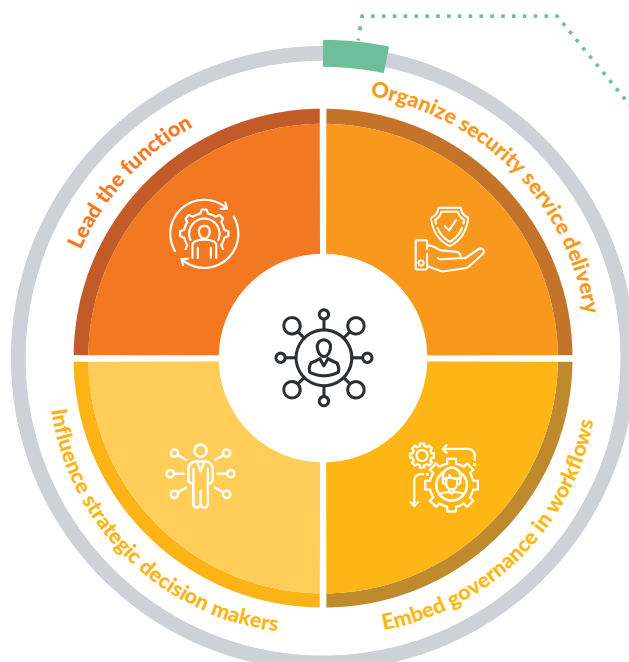

As cybercrime continues to evolve into a lucrative global industry, business and IT leaders must navigate rapid growth and its impact on their organization's unique risk fingerprint - while balancing the increasing complexity of security operations and the cost of compliance.

Aprio is an expert in cybersecurity with a demonstrated track record of helping companies of all sizes develop, scale, and manage effective cybersecurity programs. Our services are purpose-built to extend your internal IT team's security operations and cybersecurity knowledge gap.

By 2023, 30% of chief information security officers' effectiveness will be directly measured on the role's ability to create value for the business.
