

Manufacturers: Maximize Your R&D Tax Credits

Partner with Aprio to uncover overlooked R&D tax credits and gain valuable tax savings.

Research and development (R&D) tax credits can bring significant savings for manufacturers providing them with an opportunity to reinvest back into their company. And yet, uncertainty clouds the qualifying criteria and eligibility, causing many manufacturers to miss out on potential lucrative tax benefits.

Aprio's R&D Tax Credit Services team can help you gain clarity around your company's R&D tax credit eligibility. Our dedicated team of R&D tax credit specialists will seamlessly facilitate the entire process — from providing education on what qualifies to quantifying and documenting credit eligible costs with minimal disruption to your operations.

Do you qualify?

As a manufacturer, time spent developing or improving your manufacturing processes or products may qualify for an R&D tax credit. Some of the key factors that can drive your eligibility, include:

- ✓ New Product Introduction
- ✓ Increasing Throughput
- ✓ Obsolescence or Supply Chain Issues
- ✓ Tooling Costs
- ✓ Qualifying New Materials
- ✓ Unsuccessful Efforts
- ✓ Product Improvement or Enhancements
- ✓ Identifying Quality Issues in Production
- ✓ First Runs
- ✓ Decreasing Scrap Through Trial Runs
- ✓ Creation of a New Manufacturing Process
- ✓ Touch Labor during Trial Runs
- ✓ Continuous Improvements Initiatives
- ✓ Efforts to Produce Current Product Offering with Reduced Costs
